DAY: 01

---

Dehradun to Sankri

Your adventure begins with a beautiful drive from Dehradun to narrow, which passes through succulent valleys, dense cedar forests and attractive Himalayan villages. The route provides a glimpse of tons of river, apple orchards and terraced fields.

Sankri is a stir -based base camp for several trek in Uttarakhand, including Har Ki Dun and Kedarkantha. On arrival, check in a guesthouse or homestay, interact with the locals, and detect traditional wooden houses that reflect unique Himalayan architecture.

DAY: 02

Sankri to Devsu Bugyal

The trek begins with a gradual climb through a dense cedar and oak forest. The sound of fresh mountain wind and rustle leaves creates a peaceful atmosphere. As soon as you climb, you cross the wooden bridges on the gurgling streams and walk along the Supin River.

On reaching Devasu Bagyal, you will be congratulated with a huge meadow that is surrounded by huge peaks. This high altitude meadow is famous for its blooming Wildflower and the panoramic views of the Garhwal Himalayas.

DAY: 03

Devsu Bugyal to Ruinsara Tal

The trail continues through rolling meadows and moraine-covered paths, gradually gaining altitude. The surroundings become more rugged and dramatic, with glimpses of the Swargarohini peaks towering in the distance.

You finally arrive at Ruinsara Tal, a pristine glacial lake nestled in a quiet valley. The reflection of snow-capped mountains on the clear turquoise water makes it one of the most breathtaking spots on the trek.

DAY: 04

Ruinsara Tal to Thanga Base Camp

A relatively easy trekking day allows you to move forward before climbing big. The landscape transforms into barren alpine region, in which rocky outflow and ice patches appear on the way.

Thanga base camp provides incredible views of Kalanag (Black Peak), Bandarpooch and Swargorohini. Relax the rest of the day, stretching, and prepare for further climbing.

DAY: 05

Thanga Base Camp to Bali Pass Base Camp

The trek is standing today and demanding a climb on loose rocks and Moren. Increasing height becomes more challenging in breathing, so a stable speed is important. The footpath is surrounded by snowfield and huge peaks, producing a real Himalayas experience.

On reaching Bali Pass Base Camp, you are rewarded with a stunning 360-degree scene in the Garhwal Himalayas. The night will be cold at this height, so ensure proper layering and take enough rest before the big peak day.

DAY: 06

Bali Pass Base Camp to Lower Damini via Bali Pass

The most demand and life day of the trek! You start quickly (before sunrise) to deal with standing climb to Bali nearby. The final climb involves walking on an ice ridge with sheer drops on both sides. In Bali Pass Summit (16,207 ft), Swargorohini, Bandarpunch and Yamunotri take them to breathtaking scenes. The thrill of winning the pass is unmatched.

The dynasty is equally challenging, which leads to steep and slippery slopes, which goes to the lower Damini. You pass through glacier fields, screen sections and narrow lines, requiring excessive caution. The landscape changes when you go to green forests near Damini.

DAY: 07

---

Lower Damini to Janki Chatti to Dehradun

The final stretch of the trek takes you through dense forests and small villages, leading to the entrance of the Yamunotry temple to Janaki Chatti.

Before going back, take some time to relax in natural hot springs in Janaki Chatti, it is believed that they have healing properties. From here, a beautiful drive for Dehradun mark your earrings passing the end of adventure work.
